21 Affairs (Board).

22 2. On August 5, 1985, the Medical Board issued Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate

28 laws. All section references are to the Business and Professions Code unless otherwise indicated.

4. Section 2227 of the Code provides that a licensee who is found guilty under the Medical Practice Act may have his or her license revoked, suspended for a period not to exceed one year, placed on probation and required to pay the costs of probation monitoring, or such other action taken in relation to discipline as the Board deems proper.

FACTS

6. At all times relevant to this matter, Respondent was licensed and practicing medicine in California.

1 7. Patient A.C.¹ was Respondent's patient from approximately 2003 or 2004 until 2 approximately 2014. She had complaints of low back pain dating to December 2008. A lumbar
3 spine x-ray done in March 2009 showed degenerative disc disease at L5-S1. She was taking 4 etodolac² and Norco³ 5/500 for her pain.

5 8. On April 30, 2009, Respondent began prescribing 5 mg of Methadone⁴ for A.C. twice
6 a day for her low back and pelvic pain.

7 9. A.C. had an MRI of her lumbar spine on May 12, 2009 which showed an acute
8 compression fracture of the L4 vertebral body which was not evident on the March x-ray.

9 10. On May 14, 2009, Respondent ordered blood tests and a bone density test to follow
10 up on the compression fracture. The blood test showed A.C.'s sedimentation rate (sed rate) to be 11 high, 118 mm/Hr, with a normal range of 0 to 30 mm/Hr. Respondent noted on May 21, 2009
12 that he would have the sed rate retested in two weeks and, if it was still high, he would seek a
13 rheumatology consult. In a May 29, 2009 message, A.C. asked Respondent if her lumbar fracture
14 was related to her elevated sed rate. Respondent replied that he did not think the fracture was 15 related to the sed rate but did not mention or explore other possible causes. A repeat sed rate on 16 June 4, 2009 was 120 mm/Hr, a bit higher than the earlier level yet there is no evidence that 17 rheumatology was consulted.

18 11. The report for A.C.'s bone density test, dated May 29, 2009, showed normal bone
19 density in the hips and lumbar spine but reflected that the lumbar spine density had decreased by 20 6.7% compared to a study done on August 29, 2007, a statistically significant change.
21

23 ¹ The patient is designated in this document as Patient A.C. to protect her privacy.
24 Respondent knows the name of the patient and can confirm her identity through discovery.

25 ² Etodolac is a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) used to treat mild to 26 moderate pain, osteoarthritis, or rheumatoid arthritis. It is a dangerous drug as defined in section
27 4022 of the Code.

28 ³ Norco, a trade name for hydrocodone bitartrate with acetaminophen, is an opioid analgesic. The strength of the tablet is 5/500 which reflects 5 mg of hydrocodone and 500 mg of acetaminophen. It is a Schedule II controlled substance and narcotic and is a dangerous drug as defined in section 4022 of the Code.

⁴ Methadone is an opioid medication. It is a schedule II controlled substance and narcotic and a dangerous drug as defined in section 4022 of the Code. Methadone is used as a pain reliever and as part of drug addiction detoxification and maintenance programs.

1 Respondent left a message for A.C. stating, "[t]hough there has been a decline in the density from 2 the prior study your densities are in the normal range."

3 12. The June 4, 2009 blood tests ordered by Respondent included a serum protein
4 electrophoresis (SPEP) test which measures specific proteins in the blood to help identify some 5 diseases such as cancer. The SPEP results were abnormal with a gamma spike and an M-band of 6 37.8% and a concentration of 3.8 g/dl. Respondent reviewed the results on June 8, 2009 and 7 commented that there was an elevated sed rate and gamma globulin spike on the SPEP consistent
8 with chronic inflammation. He did not mention the elevated M-band results which can indicate
9 multiple myeloma and did not formulate differential diagnoses. He did not repeat the SPEP test
10 despite its abnormal findings.

11 13. On June 8, 2009, Respondent increased A.C.'s methadone prescription from twice a 12 day to three to four times a day.

13 14. After the June 4, 2009 blood tests, A.C. was seen by physicians from spine surgery
14 and infectious disease and treated for gram positive bacteremia and discitis and was placed on 15 antibiotics.

16 15. A CT scan done on August 14, 2009 following the course of antibiotics showed a 17 large lytic⁵ defect involving the inferior aspect of the L3 vertebra.

18 16. On September 15, 2010, A.C. had surgery for anteroposterior L2-5 fusion. On 19 November 1, 2010, A.C. had the second part of the surgery, a vertebroplasty, where cement was 20 injected in the vertebra above her fusion. This involved T12, L1, and L2.

21 17. On December 28, 2010, A.C. presented to Respondent with allergy complaints and 22 nose bleeds. She was referred to Eye Ear Nose and Throat (EENT) for an evaluation.

23 18. At the time of A.C.'s nine-month post surgery follow-up on September 2, 2011, she 24 was no longer taking pain medications, had no activity restrictions, and was released to follow up
25 with her primary care physician.

26
27
28 ⁵ Soft spots that appear as "holes" on a standard bone x-ray are referred to as lytic or osteolytic lesions.

1 19. Approximately a year later, on October 9, 2012, A.C. saw Respondent for back pain,
2 fatigue, and nausea, sometimes associated with vertigo. He ordered x-rays and blood tests which 3 were, for the most part, normal.

4 20. On January 26, 2013, A.C. returned to Respondent with left chest and left thorax
5 pain, pleuritic and nonexertional in character, and generalized fatigue. Cardiac and chest exams
6 were normal.

7 21. On March 17, 2013, A.C. was seen by another physician for cough, fever, and a sore
8 throat. A chest x-ray was ordered which showed right upper lobe pneumonia and persistent
9 cardiomegaly. Respondent saw A.C. the following day. His notes reflect that he discussed the x-
10 ray with A.C. and advised her it was consistent with pneumonia and that he switched her 11 antibiotic to Zithromax. He did not mention or follow up on the cardiomegaly finding.

12 22. Respondent next saw A.C. on May 13, 2013 for left shoulder pain. There was no
13 mention of a follow-up chest x-ray for the pneumonia and no mention of the cardiomegaly.

14 23. A.C. was seen by another physician on May 31, 2013 complaining of not feeling well.
15 She had had a cold for four weeks, was now experiencing heavy brown phlegm, and was feeling
16 weak. She was prescribed another course of Zithromax plus a prednisone burst.

17 24. On September 2, 2013, A.C. saw Respondent. She complained of leg cramps,
18 bronchitis, a urinary tract infection, poor sleep, and recurring episodes of nocturnal sweats,
19 among other things. Respondent's primary diagnosis was hypertension. He changed A.C.'s
20 blood pressure medication and ordered her lipids rechecked on a trial of red rice yeast
21 supplement. He did not document an assessment or plan for her recurring night sweats, later
22 attributing them, without basis, to the CPAP that she used for sleep apnea and the early 23 September heat.

— 24 25. On September 9, 2013, A.C. was seen in the emergency department with complaints
25 of chest pain and fever. Her exam was noteworthy for left-sided chest wall tenderness on 26 palpation, lungs clear, no heart murmurs, and a negative abdominal exam. The assessment was 27 possible fecal impaction.
28

1 26. Respondent saw A.C. the next day, September 10, 2013, for a follow-up exam. He
2 noted that she had had fevers of up to 101 degrees the preceding week, her blood cultures were
3 positive for gram positive cocci in chains, and a CT angiography from the emergency department
4 was suspicious for a 9.8 mm lytic lesion involving the body of the L4 vertebra. Her emergency
5 department lab test results included a urinalysis showing 600 mg/dl of protein with a normal
6 range of 0 to 9. Respondent assessed A.C. with gram positive bacteremia and sent her back to the 7 emergency department. He did not suggest any explanation or follow-up for the proteinuria.

8 27. A.C.'s blood culture grew strep viridans and she had an infectious disease
9 consultation. She was again placed on IV antibiotics.

10 28. By October 5, 2013, A.C.'s kidney function had declined and she was in stage 3 renal
11 failure. She was also having increasing shortness of breath. She was readmitted to the hospital
12 on October 6, 2013 with severe aortic insufficiency and she underwent aortic valve replacement
13 on October 11, 2013.

14 29. A.C. had a coagulopathy after the heart valve surgery and a hematology consult was 15 obtained. A second SPEP was reported on November 6, 2013 which again showed a gamma 16 spike with M-band spike now at 59%. A bone marrow biopsy was done on November 5, 2013
17 which showed that A.C. had multiple myeloma.

18 FIRST CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

19 (Gross Negligence and/or Repeated Acts of Negligence)

20 30. Respondent Raymond Paul Freitas, M.D. is guilty of unprofessional conduct and
21 subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (b) (gross negligence) and/or (c)
22 (repeated negligent acts), of the Code in that Respondent engaged in the conduct described above
23 including, but not limited to, the following:

24 A. Respondent failed to follow through with a rheumatology referral as planned when 25 A.C.'s repeat sediment rate on June 4, 2009 was higher than it had been when tested on May 14, 2009.

26 B. Respondent exhibited a lack of concern over A.C.'s May 29, 2009 abnormal bone
27 density scan.

1 C. Respondent failed to offer or pursue an explanation for A.C.'s lumbar compression
2 fracture other than to note on May 29, 2009 that he did not think that her elevated sed rate was 3 related to the fracture.

4 D. Respondent failed to order a repeat SPEP after the abnormal one on June 4, 2009.

5 E. Respondent failed to follow up on A.C.'s March 17, 2013 chest x-ray results showing
6 pneumonia and persistent cardiomegaly.

7 F. Respondent failed to investigate the cause of the recurrent night sweats A.C.
8 described at her September 2, 2013 visit.

9 G. When Respondent saw A.C. on September 10, 2013, he failed to order a follow-up 10 urinalysis for proteinuria or an explanation for not ordering one.

11 SECOND CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

12 (Gross Negligence and/or Repeated Acts of Negligence)

13 31. Respondent Raymond Paul Freitas, M.D. is guilty of unprofessional conduct and
14 subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (b) (gross negligence) and/or (c)
15 (repeated negligent acts), of the Code in that Respondent engaged in the conduct described above
16 including, but not limited to, interpreting A.C.'s June 4, 2009 SPEP test result only as being 17 consistent with chronic inflammation, ignoring the M-band spike which does not indicate 18 inflammation but, rather, malignant or potentially malignant conditions, and failing to formulate
19 differential diagnoses such as multiple myeloma, especially given A.C.'s abnormal bone density
20 scan and increasing use of methadone to control her pain.

21 PRAYER

22 WHEREFORE, Complainant requests that a hearing be held on the matters herein alleged,
23 and that following the hearing, the Medical Board of California issue a decision:

25 issued to Raymond Paul Freitas, M.D.;

27 authority to supervise physician assistants and advanced practice nurses;
28

1 3. Ordering Raymond Paul Freitas, M.D., if placed on probation, to pay the Board the 2 costs of probation monitoring; and
